

List of Contributors

Paata Bolashvili, Director of Municipal Programs Implementation Coordination Center of Georgia. Since 1997 he has directed the World Bank “Municipal Development and Decentralization Project” in Georgia. His main fields of interest are municipal management and decentralization.

Armen Danielian is an Associate Professor of Economics at Pyatigorsk State University of Linguistics, Russia. He holds an M.A. from Pyatigorsk State University of Linguistics and a Ph.D. in Economics from North Caucasus State Technical University (City of Stavropol, Russia). His main fields of interest are political economy of interest groups, rent-seeking and intergovernmental fiscal relations

Kenneth Davey, an Oxford graduate, was a civil servant for 15 years and then Professor and Head of the School of Public Policy at Birmingham University. Since 1990 he has been heavily involved in Central and Eastern Europe as an adviser on local government reform and is now a member of the LGI Steering Committee.

Lusine Ghevondyan is currently is an MBA student at the University of Wyoming, USA. From 1998 to 2001 she was a Principal Assistant for KPMG Consulting on a USAID-funded Tax and Fiscal Reforms Project in Yerevan, Armenia. She also has an M.A. in Political Science and International Relations from the American University of Armenia, an affiliate of the University of California, USA. Ms. Ghevondyan’s main areas of interest are intergovernmental financial management and municipal budgeting.

Alexey Kononets is pursuing a Master’s degree in Public Administration at the University at Albany, State University of New York, and a Ph.D. in Finance, Money, Circulation and Credits, at the Financial Research Institute for the Ministry of Finance of Ukraine. He holds a Specialist degree in Economics from the National Agricultural University in Kiev, Ukraine. His areas of interest are taxation, state and local government revenues, and modeling techniques for public policy. Alexey worked as a senior specialist-financier of the Tax Department at the Ministry of Finance of Ukraine.

David Tumanyan is Head of the Public Administration and Local Government Department at the Armenian School of Public Administration. He holds a doctorate in Economics from the Yerevan Institute of National Economy. He is the co-author of the textbook, The Principles of Local Government. He regularly publishes on economic management, Public Administration and local self-governance problems.